1980 Census Data By Legislative District

Everything you ever wanted to know about your Legislative District

By

Assistant Professor Floyd Hickok
UND Department of Geography

PREFACE

The Bureau of Governmental Affairs is pleased to present this compilation of 1980 census information for each legislative district in North Dakota. Although the census was taken over two years ago, only within the past month has some of this data been released. Even this information has not been widely distributed, however, since it has only been available on computer tape. We are indebted to Floyd Hickok, Assistant Professor of Geography at UND, for his work in programming and coding this data to correspond to legislative district boundaries.

We hope this report will be useful to legislators, legislative candidates. and district party leaders in gaining a better understanding of the constituency they represent. We also hope it will be interesting to researchers and political observers who seek to interpret electoral and legislative behavior in our representative system of government.

INTRODUCTION

Reliability of the Data

The 1980 Census of Population and Housing is probably the most accurate census ever taken, yet errors and discrepancies are inevitable. If these tables are studied carefully many discrepancies can be found.

There are at least three causes for these discrepancies--data suppression, sampling error, and legislative district boundaries which do not match census boundaries. The number of persons and their race and the number of housing units are never suppressed, but most other answers to census questions are confidential and the census bureau cannot divulge any data which could be used to reveal information about any specific individual. Therefore, data is suppressed if there are too few persons in a cross tabulation in any geographic area. For example, five blacks are reported in District 3, but all age categories for blacks are zero.

The most detailed data, such as education and income, were obtained from long questionnaires sent to every sixth household in urban areas and to every second household in rural areas. Data obtained from a sample of this size is very reliable for large populations, but its reliability decreases as the size of the population becomes smaller. Because more data tends to be suppressed where populations are small and sampling error is greatest for small populations, small numbers, especially zero, should be used with caution.

Explanation of Terms

To assist in interpreting the tables in this report the following terms are described as used by the Census Bureau.

*Urban consists of all cities having at least 2,500 population.

*Rural includes towns with less than 2,500 persons.

*Median is the value at the mid point of a population. For example, the median age for North Dakota is 28.3 years which means that fifty percent of the State's people are below 28.3 years of age.

*Spanish Origin is not a racial category. Most of these persons report white as their race.

*Marital status is reported for all persons fifteen years of age and over.

*The number of occupied housing units, households, and householders is always the same. All occupied housing units are either owner occupied or renter occupied.

*Households are either family or nonfamily. A family household must have at least one person in the household who is related to the householder by birth, marriage or adoption.

*A one parent family does not necessarily mean a broken home since the missing parent could be dead or employed away from his family such as a service man stationed overseas.

*A nonfamily household is one in which the householder lives alone or lives with nonrelatives.

*The householder is simply the first person reported on a census questionnaire.

*Persons not living in households reside in group quarters. Residents of institutions are those living in such institutions as homes for the aged, orphanages, schools or hospitals for the physically or mentally handicapped, and persons living in correctional institutions. Persons in group quarters which are not institutions include those persons living in college dormitories, military barracks, boarding houses, and any other nonhousehold living arrangement.

The North Dakota Census Data Center

North Dakota, like 44 other states, has entered into an agreement with the Census Bureau under which the Census Bureau provides the State with all census products (computer tapes, microfiche, and printed reports) which include data for North Dakota. The Census Bureau also sends census personnel to the State to conduct training sessions on the use of these materials. These are provided without cost to the State, but the Census Bureau provides no money for administration of the North Dakota Data Center nor for distribution of census materials. The State's part of the agreement is to make census information available to citizens of the State.

The North Dakota Census Data Center is composed of four lead agencies and 17 affiliates. The lead agencies are the North Dakota State Planning Division which provides administrative support, the State Library, the Department of Agricultural Economics at North Dakota State University, and the Geography Department at the University of North Dakota. As yet the Census Data Center has no state budget. Each of the lead agencies is operating with limited resources provided by their own institutions.

The data included in this report are only a small part of the information that is or will be available. There will be fewer printed reports than in 1970, but much more data available on computer tape and microfiche. The Data Center has already received 10,000 pages of microfiche and expects to receive another 30,000 pages by the end of 1982. There is even more data available on computer tape.

Where To Obtain Additional Census Information

Questions related to data in this report should be directed to Floyd Hickok in the UND Geography Department (phone 777-4246). More general information can be obtained from any of the following sources:

State Library, Bismarck
Agricultural Economics Department, NDSU, Fargo
Geography Department, UND, Grand Forks
